Arty party

IT was a hearty arty party at St. Regis as Anuraag Bhatnagar, GM, St. Regis and Gayatri Ruia along with Vickram Sethi and Tushar Sethi of The Arts Trust and Astaguru showcased the works of Jogen Chowdhury. Admiring the artworks were Shobhaa De, Anandita De, Sahil Sheth, Queenie Singh, Madhoo Shah, Rouble Nagi, Kunika Singh, Divya Thakur, Deveika and Suresh Bhojwani, Devita Saraf, Avantikka Kilachand, Pramod Raju, Aditya Kilachand, Nisha Jamwwal, Bijal Meswani, Reena and Ashok Wadhwa, Tasneem Mehta, Shibani Agarwal, Atul Ruia and Amit Bhonsale among many others. Tasty hors d'oeuvres, fine wines and luxury drinks made it a heady affair to remember.

Spiritual style

HEADY indeed was the feeling as Zoya, the chain of exquisite diamond boutiques from the House of Tata, along with Nikhil Agarwal, CEO, All Things Nice, hosted a splendid soirée celebrating the finesse of fine whisky at the Zoya flagship store on Linking Road. Single malt connoisseurs who appreciate fine jewellery admired the 'Zoya Masterpieces' representation of Zoya's quest for excellence which brings back the luxe pieces of jewellery presented by the brand over the years. The muse, you learnt, was in the mythology of Greece, graceful moves of Spanish flamenco dancers and in Benaras while experiencing the lifestyle from the Awadh era. Guests gushed at the opulent display of Zoya's collections that narrated luxurious tales spun in diamond and gold embellished with rubies, tanzanites and sapphires. And they thoroughly enjoyed the single malts: Glenlivet, The Balvenie, Glenmorangie Lasanta and Lagavulin.
